

Peace in a Troubled World

What can religion offer us amid today's chaos?

In a world where the “facts” seem to belong to those shouting the most loudly, civil unrest threatens, social media squabbles are common, and trust in traditional social institutions continues to decline, where can we find peace?

Religion has had its own share of conflicts, but most religions still offer the promise of calm and harmony in the face of chaos. What can we learn from several major faith traditions about finding peace, reaching harmony, and learning from each other in such a troubled world? Come hear from:

- Imam Omar Tawil, Islamic Community Center of Tempe
- Rabbi Michael Beyo, EV Jewish Community Center
- Derek Blamires, campus LDS Institute director
- Guru Dev Khalsa, Guru Nanak Dwara, Phoenix
- Alden Weight, ASU Social Science, panel moderator

We hope to see you there!

Join us on Zoom
at 3 p.m. on Thurs.,
Feb. 4, 2021!

Meeting Link:
<https://asu.zoom.us/j/3585242405>

Sponsors of the Harmony Interfaith
Religions panel include
Polytechnic campus
Student Engagement and Social Science
faculty.