Arthur John Fitzgerald Fellowship
Counseling and Counseling Psychology
Arizona State University

About the Fellowship

The Arthur John Fitzgerald Fellowship was created to support doctoral students pursuing their PhD in counseling Psychology. Mr. Fitzgerald earned his Masters of Counseling degree from ASU in 1984 and strongly believed in the value of higher education. It was his wish to support graduate students as they work toward a doctoral degree in counseling psychology. During his life, Mr. Fitzgerald served as Pastor in many congregations throughout the United States and preached many meaningful sermons fostering ecumenicity, promotion of opportunities for youth, and advancement of housing for the poor.

Fellowships are awarded in the amount of $1,000. Students are eligible for only one award.

Who may Apply

Students who have successfully proposed their master's thesis or who are proposing dissertation topics in areas relevant to Mr. Fitzgerald’s passions of promoting opportunities for youth and housing for the poor are strongly encouraged to apply.

Application Requirements and Deadline

To apply please submit a:

1. One page letter of interest outlining how your prior experiences (research, clinical, and service) are in line with Mr. Fitzgerald's passions.

2. Copy of your current CV

Applications are due to Rebecca Reining at Rebecca.Reining@asu.edu by January 6, 2017.

Review Process

All complete applications received by the deadline will be reviewed by the committee. The committee will consider the following criteria in evaluating each application:

1. Student’s presentation and publication record, commensurate with year in the program.

2. Compatibility of the student’s prior and future work (research, clinical, and service) with Mr. Fitzgerald’s passions.