The Science, Mathematics and Social Sciences faculty in the College of Integrative Sciences and Arts on the Downtown Phoenix Campus at Arizona State University invites applications for a Lecturer for the 2018-2019 academic year. The successful candidate will provide instruction in the areas of psychology and/or child/human development; develop course syllabi according to university and discipline standards; write, assign, and grade exams, quizzes, and assignments; maintain student grade records for assigned courses; review and evaluate effectiveness of teaching methods and work activities; and work with faculty in curriculum development, planning, and implementation. Course assignments are at the graduate/undergraduate levels, and may occur in a variety of modalities (online, on-ground, hybrid), on the downtown Phoenix campus and may involve other psychology-related courses depending on program needs.

The course load is determined by the faculty head and typically consists of four classes per semester. The successful candidate will also be expected to participate in service to the institution and profession as appropriate. This is a full-time, benefits-eligible, non-tenure eligible position renewable on an academic year basis contingent upon satisfactory performance, availability of resources, and the needs of the university. Salary is competitive commensurate with experience. Candidate must reside in Arizona, or be willing to relocate. For more information please visit https://cisa.asu.edu/.

Required Qualifications:

- Terminal degree in Psychology or related field, at time of appointment
- Evidence of two years’ post-secondary teaching effectiveness in psychology-related courses
- Demonstrated experience using technology for instruction including software, course management systems, and online homework systems
- Excellent English written and spoken communication skills

Desired Qualifications:

- Four years of psychology and/or human development teaching experience
- Experience teaching advanced psychology courses such as social psychology, statistics, and abnormal psychology
- Experience working with first-year college students
- Demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities
- Demonstrated ability to work collaboratively in a team environment, especially in a setting in which multiple faculty teach different sections of the same course
- Demonstrated experience integrating recent psychology literature into course curricula
- Experience using the education literature to inform classroom practice and curriculum development
